

Email Agents

Communication with agents is one of the most time consuming aspects of managing your brokerage.

Ease your burden with Broker Office Solutions. We have built several communications tools right into the system.

Email for instance. You can send an personalized email to all of your agents in just the time it takes to type it. (Personalized means Dear John, or Joe whatever the agents name is of course, not Hey Agents: or Listen up:)

What if you want to send an email to only half of them? You can do that!

What if you want to send an email invitation to everybody except the agent you will have to let go this friday? You can do that!

But what about communicating problems with paperwork? That is the easiest of all. Those emails are just one click. Or you could just let your agents use their personal login to find out what is wrong with paperwork they turned in.